

Allies Recapture Hoengsong Push Deep In Red Defences

Red Line Pierced

Arrow in upper centre of map points to Yongsu (3) where Canadians and other troops in the Commonwealth Brigade today drove ahead against stiffening Communist resistance. U.S. Marines meanwhile captured Hoengsong (2) to find the rubble city deserted.

Canadians Join In Drive Of 2 Miles Toward Yongdu

TOKYO (CP)—United States Marines swept through abandoned Hoengsong today and stabbed deeper into the heart of Communist defences on the central Korean front.

Communist resistance stiffened all along the Allied line. On the east-central front, Korean Reds wearing South Korean uniforms knifed inside American positions and fought the infantrymen hand-to-hand.

Red jets again challenged U.S. jets near the Manchurian border.

Tank-led Marines of the 1st Division drove into Hoengsong unopposed at 2.40 p.m. after smashing Chinese Reds in a two-day battle on dominating ridges nearby. Infantrymen followed the Marines.

Field dispatches said they found the rubble highway hub littered with the frozen bodies of earlier Allied casualties and scores of wrecked army trucks and jeeps. Hoengsong was virtually deserted.

Fifty air miles east of Seoul, Hoengsong is in the middle of the mountainous central front. It fell to the Chinese Feb. 12 during the Red counter-offensive that failed to crack the Allied line.

That counter-drive had cost the Chinese heavily. But an ambush inside Hoengsong took a heavy toll of Netherlands troops, including their commander, Lt. Col. Marinus P. A. den Ouden.

On the Marines' left flank, Canadian, British, New Zealand and Australian troops punched northward against stiffening Chinese resistance. This was in the Yongsu area, 17 miles west of Hoengsong.

The 8th Army communiqué Thursday said that a Commonwealth vanguard consisting of Australians gained nearly two miles, capturing a hill three miles southeast of Yongsu and 14 miles southwest of Hoengsong, important Communist assembly area.

Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the 2nd Battalion P.C.L.L., reported Thursday that a company had recovered all the equipment it abandoned Feb. 24 when it evacuated a position under intense enemy fire. He reported the Canadians on Hill 419 which they captured Feb. 28.

To retake Hoengsong Friday, the Marines stormed a series of hills and ridges to the south and west—sometimes at bayonet point. Then they swept through Hoengsong toward high ground to the north. The Marines were on the approaches to Hoengsong.

EMBARKATION LEAVE COMING

OTTAWA (CP)—Embarkation leave for a limited number of Canadian soldiers slated to go to Korea is expected to be announced shortly.

R.C.A.F. planes may be used to fly some special leave men to their homes.

It now appears that the 25th Brigade will not leave North America for at least another two weeks.

Negotiations have been under way with the Americans whose ships will transport the brigade's 5,000 men across the Pacific.

Margarine Color, Drunk Tests Asked By Women

A Royal Commission on liquor, scientific tests for drunk driving suspects, a three-member Milk Board and coloring of margarine were among requests made of the provincial cabinet today by a delegation of 24 from the Provincial Council of Women.

The council said a study of all phases of distribution and consumption of alcohol should be made by a commission the provincial government should ask to appoint.

Findings of the commission should be published before a plebiscite is taken on changing the liquor laws, it was stated.

Catholics Of Montreal Deny Red Charges

MONTREAL (Reuter)—Authorities of the Roman Catholic Missionary Order of the Immaculate Conception today flatly denied charges by a Communist Chinese newspaper that Canadian nuns who conduct an orphanage in Canton have been guilty of "inhuman acts against the children in their charge."

The charge the Roman Catholic authorities said were "utterly false" and "nothing but Communist propaganda."

(Since the Communists took over in China, there has been a widespread campaign to drive out western missionaries or take over their institutions.)

The newspaper, Nam Yung Yat Po, said the orphanage has been supported by contributions from Canada and Catholic bodies in other countries during its 18 years' existence. Five principal members of the staff were Canadian.

"Since the liberation of Canton (by the Communists) the orphanage has admitted a total of 2,251 infants of whom 2,116 or 94 per cent have died in the institution to date," the newspaper alleged.

$65,000,000 For Wheat Pool Farmers

Federal Treasury To Pay Compensation Pact Losses

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to recommit a payment from the federal treasury of $65,000,000 towards a final settlement of the five-year wheat pool, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today.

He said this will provide a per bushel payment equal to approximately 23 cents a bushel for the last two years of the four-year contract.

The addition of the $65,000,000 will swell the amount remaining in the five-year wheat pool to $120,000,000.

U.S. Doubtful If Real Peace Talks Possible

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States heavily discounts chances that real "peace talks" with Russia will result from Big Four negotiations beginning in Paris Monday.

Officials here are convinced that what Russia wants to do in Paris is to set the stage for a new diplomatic and propaganda offensive against the western defence effort if and when the Big Four Foreign Ministers meet in Washington at a date not yet set.

The Paris session of representatives of the British, French, United States and Russian Foreign Ministers is expected to last about two weeks. Its purpose is to decide on subjects and complete the arrangements for a session of the ministers themselves, probably in April.

The U.S. State Department statement cautioned the world not to expect that any meeting of the Foreign Ministers will be really productive—that it will result in the serious "peace talks" by which the Western Powers and the Soviet Union might end their conflict.

Radical Douks May Settle On Graham Island

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Radical Sons of Freedom may move to the Queen Charlotte Islands, about 500 miles northwest of Vancouver.

It was learned Thursday that the minority group of the Doukhobors has sent a delegation to Graham Island, biggest island in the Queen Charlottes, to inspect land.

Relocation has been endorsed by both the 2,500 Sons of Freedom and the 12,500 orthodox Doukhobors, who would remain in the Kootenay area.

A member of the delegation said "we are checking to see if the land on the island can be developed. . . . We will probably study other areas in British Columbia before making a decision to move."

TAKE OVER MEN'S WORK

When the expected Ottawa approval of again enlisting women in the services is given, the R.C.A.F. will offer trades to them which heretofore have been considered strictly male territory.

It was learned unofficially today the air force has set up establishments for women to be aero-engine and aero-frame mechanics, aircraft electricians, instrument mechanics and other technical trades.

In addition, they will be trained for trades in which they took part during the war, such as clerks, typists, telephone operators, motor transport drivers, fighter controllers, filter and so on.

LOCAL INTEREST HIGH

Since the announcement that a holding list of women interested in donning the blue uniforms is being kept at the local

This, on the basis of 1,428,000 bushels of wheat delivered by farmers over the five-year period, will provide a payment of about 8.3 cents a bushel.

CREDIT LEFT

Mr. St. Laurent said the house would have noted that Britain announced recently it would make no further withdrawals from the balance remaining from the $125,000,000 Canadian credit extended several years ago.

Under the wheat contract, Canada delivered 600,000 bushels of wheat to Britain. The British paid $1.55 a bushel during the first two years and $2 a bushel in the last two years.

Under one of the contract clauses—known as the "have regard to" clause—Britain undertook in deciding the price to be paid in the last two years to take into account the low price at which she got wheat in the first two years.

Canadian farm leaders have contended Britain should have made a further payment to compensate for the low early-year prices. This Britain has refused to do.

ADDITIONAL SUM

He told Commons, in a statement on the final settlement of the 1945-49 pool, that the $65,000,000 contribution will be in addition to the amount now remaining in the pool.

The $65,000,000 represents the amount remaining in a Canadian government credit extended to Britain, which took the bulk of the wheat in the five-year pool. Social Credit and C.C.F. members quickly indicated they don't think the settlement is big enough.

DIVER MEETS DEATH ON JOB

VANCOUVER (CP)—Diver Bill Zess, 63, died in his diving suit today, the way he wanted it to happen. Zess was under the waters of Burrard Inlet here salvaging an old pipeline when suddenly, men on the tender Sarj Singer heard him on the communication phone: "Pull me up."

Zess was dead when he reached the surface, apparently of a heart attack.

Zess had been a diver for 48 years. His father was the first deep-sea diver in Canada. One of his two sons, Phillip, is also a diver.

California's Alleged Secret Boos Testifies

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Rond Artie Samish, liquor lobbyist who had been called "the secret boss of California," turned over all his personal income tax records today to the Kefauver crime committee.

Samish, a massive, balding man who has been a lobbyist in Sacramento for a quarter of a century, told Senator Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., his records would cover "everything I think you'll want."

Samish also gave the committee a copy of a contract made in 1935 with the California Brewers Institute which he said "I think you'll find most interesting."

Samish told the committee he received $30,000 a year from the Brewers Institute alone.

"I received it personally," he said. He also said that in 1949 he represented the Motor Carriers' Association, Philip Morris cigarettes, Schenley Industries of New York, and that he "helped with the policy" of the Southern California Spirits Foundation.

U.S. AIRPLANE CRASH IN STORM KILLS 15

Stewardess, Nine Others Survive Iowa Disaster During Sudden Snow Squall

SIoux CITY, Ia. (BUP)—A Mid-Continent DC-3 airliner carrying 25 persons crashed and burned while attempting a landing during a snowstorm at municipal airport here today.

The airlines office here said 15 were killed.

"There were 25 persons aboard the plane and there were 10 survivors," the office said.

The plane was en route from Kansas City to Minneapolis.

An Aberdeen, S.D., woman, Mrs. J. D. Alway, who survived a Mid-Continent Airlines crash Tuesday at Tulsa, Okla., was among those killed today.

The statement said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of four.

One of the crew members, Stewardess Marilyn Woodbury, Kansas City, Mo., was among the survivors. She suffered a broken arm and head injuries.

9 IN HOSPITAL

Although the airline said there were 10 survivors, only nine could be found at two Sioux City hospitals where the injured were taken. One, Ray Engel, Ipswich, S.D., was in "very critical" condition.

A temporary morgue was set up at the Sioux City naval armory.

Witnesses said some of the persons aboard the plane were thrown clear as it crashed at the northwest edge of the field about half a mile from the runway. Others, they said, apparently crawled out and some were pulled out by rescuers.

Fire consumed most of the twin-engine plane.

Dave Cochran of Sioux Airlines, a private flying service at the Municipal Field about 10 miles south of here, said he saw the plane circling the field with its wheels down minutes before the crash.

"It appeared to be coming in all right," Cochran said. "I noticed both engines were over-rotating."

"Then I heard a thud. I didn't see the actual crash. The plane hit about half a mile from the runway."

"It looked to me like the ground just came up too fast for the pilot. Visibility was bad."

LION ON RAMPAGE AGAIN

Attacks Second Tiger In Circus

DETROIT (UP)—A blood-thirsty circus lion pawed restlessly in his cage today while a second tiger victim of his jungle fury lay near death.

Prince, a huge male lion, attacked a female tiger Thursday night as the animals finished their act at the Shrine Circus.

A week ago, the jungle cat clawed to death "Sheba," a valuable tigress while 3,000 awe-stricken children watched.

Wild animal trainer Clyde Beatty said he hoped to save the life of the latest victim, Rosie, valued at $5,000. Her specialty was "sitting up" and riding on the back of an elephant.

Tuesday night's bloody battle took place in a runway leading from the arena where Beatty's wild animal act had performed.

Beatty said "Rosie" was the last tiger to enter the chute and that the lions, led by Prince, followed before a handler could close the gate.

Beatty said "Prince" roared angrily, then leaped at the smaller tiger, sinking its fangs into her neck. Beatty and his helpers beat the lion with poles, but the pain only made Prince tighten his death grip on the bloodsoaked tigress.

Finally, Beatty said a water hose was turned on the animals, and half-drowned, Prince let loose the tigress. The handlers held the lion at bay with poles while the badly maulled victim was dragged to safety.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

THOSE 'ONE-A-MONTH' CLUBS

IF ANYTHING WERE needed to show that it isn't only the totalitarian countries that go in for regimentation in a big way, it is to be found in a news item I read recently in an American newspaper. Under a New York dateline, it told of the amazing growth of that very American institution known as the "Of-the-Month Club."

The best known of its kind is, of course, the Book-of-the-Month Club to which I, along with thousands of other Canadians, belong. And whoever was responsible for the initiation of that institution certainly started something, for today there are no less than 25 "of-the-month clubs" of various kinds, with more in the making.

WIDELY VARIED WARES

THAT PARTICULAR book club has proved so successful that it gave other eagle-eyed watchers of commercial trends the idea of supplying a wide range of merchandise through subscription. For instance among the latest manifestations is the "Fish-of-the-Month Club," believe it or not!

At first glance this looks as if it might mean a frozen fillet of sturgeon or sole or a succulent salmon steak delivered monthly through the mail for the subscriber—with the option of sending it back if it doesn't just meet the culinary tastes of the customer.

FOR AQUARIUM FANS

BUT ON READING further I find that it hasn't anything to do with the promotion of eating more fish for health, or the supplying of fresh fish for Fridays. It is for aquarium fans. Twelve times a year the subscribers to this particular club are sent a little tropical fish in a vest-pocket tank to add to their collection.

One of the most popular is the "Cheese-of-the-Month Club" that every four weeks mails a choice, nifty tidbit to its epicurean fans. Incidentally, knowing that rare cheeses are usually synonymous with strong smells, I trust that such monthly contributions are adequately packed and deodorized before being allowed to consort with other mail.

RARE DELICACIES

GOURMETS ARE ALSO able to satisfy their tastes for odd and rare delicacies by belonging to the "Food-of-the-Month Club." This, too, provides a fertile field for the creators of fanciful fare.

And what a boon for the legion of cultivators of stomach ulcers, who are thus kept on the gastronomic "qui vive" while their "innards" wait in an agony of expectancy for the monthly hamper, dedicated to the placation—or inflammation—of irritated interiors.

NECKTIES, TOO

EVEN NECKTIES come into the picture. The "Tie-of-the-Month Club" sounds like the answer to a maiden aunt's Christmas prayer. For so much a month you can have the object of your affection—or hate—sent a monthly collection of the latest horrors in painted ties, complete with sporting scenes or even nudes, or of the less exotic poached-egg-on-stripes variety.

You keep what you like and send back the rest. I don't know if it comes in that particular "Tie-of-the-Month scheme, but I recall when last in New York seeing a place which invited men to exchange their old ties for somebody else's cast-offs, cleaned up. What a boon to the Mr. Milquetoasts, who could wear the awful Christmas gift tie for a week or so, long enough for the donor to see it in all its pristine horror, then surreptitiously exchange it for their own spotted and curlicue tastes.

DOGS CATERED TO

LOVERS OF CONJURING tricks and doo-dads are taken care of in the "Magic-Trick-of-the-Month Club" and the "Gadget-of-the-Month Club." Nor are addicts of candies, cigars, gramophone records, plants and costume jewelry neglected. Another one that intrigues me is the "Dog-Food-of-the-Month Club."

If your pet "pooch" happens to be a bit choosy about his food all you have to do is to enroll him on its exclusive list. Then Fido or Asta will receive a monthly delivery of biscuits and other doggy fare—a different variety every month—and be able to turn up its nose at the neighborhood pooches who have to be content with the family leftovers.

All of which suggests that in the light of the increasing business being done in Reno and other divorce mills, it now only remains for some enterprising promoter to start up a "Husband-of-the-Month Club."

LIQUOR FOR INDIANS

M.L.A. Makes Claim For Equal Drinking Rights

Native Indians of B.C. should be given liquor privileges, the Legislature was told Thursday by one of their number.

Frank Calder, first Indian to be elected to a Legislature in western Canada, said many of his people will drink regardless, and it was best to allow them to do so in the open.

Under the new Indian Act the B.C. government would be left to decide only if Indians should be allowed in beer parlors. That wasn't good enough, he said.

Power Strike Averted

SEATTLE (UP)—Seattle's threatened power strike was called off today, Mayor William F. Devin announced. Devin said the city has reached a compromise agreement with Local 77 of the Electrical Workers Union. The walkout was set for Sunday.

RIEL REVOLT PENSION PAID

OTTAWA (CP)—The widow of a soldier wounded in the Riel Rebellion has finally been awarded a $75-a-month pension 65 years after his last battle.

The story was told Thursday by the Canadian Pension Commission. The key to it is an old parchment document unearthed in the Dominion Archives to prove the claim of the widow, now living in Vancouver.

She is Mrs. John Lethbridge. Her husband fought as a corporal with the 90th battalion—"Little Black Devils"—and suffered two gunshot wounds in 1885. He died at 80 in 1940.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime BY R. T. WEBSTER

U.S. Auto Prices Upped 3½ Per Cent To Dealers

WASHINGTON (UP)—Automobile manufacturers got the government's go-ahead today to boost prices to dealers by 3½ per cent amid indications another increase will be approved in May.

The Office of Price Stabilization's action means that dealer prices to car buyers also will go up, but not as much as 3½ per cent. Dealers may pass on to consumers only the dollars-and-cents increases in manufacturers' prices.

Price stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said the 3½ per cent increase is "interim" in nature for 60 days and "substantially less" than actual increases in manufacturers' costs in the last half of 1950.

DiSalle said his agency is working as fast as it can "to provide a comprehensive pricing formula." Presumably it will be ready at the end of 60 days.

DiSalle gave this illustration of how the 3½ per cent increase may be applied. A manufacturer sells a car to a dealer wholesale at $1,500. The dealer sells it for $2,000. The manufacturer's 3½ per cent increase boosts the price to $1,552.50. The dealer can only sell the car for $2,052.50, an increase of about 2.6 per cent over his list price.

Major automobile manufacturers had announced increases ranging from 5 to 7 per cent when the price agency last Dec. 18 froze their 1951 model prices at Dec. 1, 1950, price levels.

Big Street Clock Offered To City
F. W. Francis Ltd., jewelers, Wednesday offered the city a clock, at present located at 653 Yates, for installation at the Fountain Circle.

They promised winding and maintenance if the city would move and install the clock in the new location with the inscription: "Presented to city of Victoria by F. W. Francis Ltd." Mayor George lauded the gesture.

New Peiping Mayor
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio at Peiping Thursday said Peng Chen, secretary of the Peiping committee of the Communist Party, has been named mayor of the capital of Communist China. He was elected by 500 delegates to a Communist conference in the city of 2,000,000. There was no indication of what had happened to the previously identified mayor, Gen. Nieh Jung-chen, former acting chief of Red Army's general staff.

Planet Not New
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. navy's "possibly new" minor planet has turned out to be an old-timer—and all is secure in the heavens.

The "unusual" object has been identified as the p-p-squeak planet Thalia, which has been known to astronomers since early in the 19th century.

West Will Have 30 Divisions In 1951

Only 12 Likely In Front Line If War Starts; Canada Plans Brigade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atlantic Pact Powers may have about 30 army divisions in existence in Western Europe by the end of this year, but only a dozen would be ready on the front line if shooting started.

This latter group will be the occupation forces of the three major western powers—six U.S. divisions, three British, three French—on station in Germany. They will compose the force immediately available to Gen. Eisenhower, Allied supreme commander.

They will be reasonably prepared, at or near full strength and with the needed combat equipment. The others now are in reserve back in their home countries, in varying conditions of readiness ranging down to mere skeleton organizations.

On the basis of published or known information, the Western European military picture at the end of 1951 probably will be about like this:

The U.S. may have overseas the four additional divisions which Defense Secretary Marshall has said will go. That will bring the total to six, of which two will be experienced in the European area.

The added strength presumably will include one armored division, with infantry and possibly an airborne unit comprising the rest.

Canada, which has already sent equipment for one division to Belgium, has promised a force of brigade size. Definite commitment of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade to Korea ruled out speculation that it might soon be sent to Europe.

Italy has the structural organization at least of half a dozen divisions. However, many of them are under strength, lacking equipment and in need of training.

Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway, Denmark and Portugal have or hope to have by the year's end the equivalent of about a division each.

The four new stamps will be in denominations of four, five, seven and 15 cents. They will commemorate the 100th anniversary of stamp issuing in Canada and the growth of communications in Canada.

Renew Demand On Britain For Wheat Bonus

EDMONTON (CP)—A renewed demand for additional payment to farmers for wheat sold to the United Kingdom under the five-year pool agreement was made today in a statement issued by Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Marler referred to the clause in the agreement which said the U.K. would "have regard" for world prices as compared with prices under the agreement in the final settlement. The British government has declined to make an additional payment.

In his statement, Mr. Marler said the "have regard" clause was put there for adjustment, "to be used according to the general price trend during the last two years of the agreement."

B.C. Safecrackers Flee With $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Armed burglars escaped early today with between $3,000 and $4,000 from Kerrisdale Arena.

They bound the night watchman, dragged a safe across the ice from the arena office to a shower room where they cracked it open.

It took the 60-year-old night watchman two hours to free himself.

Police suspect the robbers hid in the arena after last night's Nanaimo-Kerrisdale Okanagan Hockey League game.

'VICTIM' OF HOLD-UP HELD

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UP)—Three men, including a corporal who was one of the "victims" in the holdup, were charged today with this week's $33,000 robbery of an air force payroll at Sheppard Base.

Charged were William Garfield McNeely, 32, and Cpl. John J. Hersch, stationed at the base, and Graden A. Miller, 19, dishonorably discharged by the air force at Sheppard Base recently.

The F.B.I. said all the money was recovered from McNeely's automobile.

Miller, authorities said, admitted he was the gunman and he implicated Cpl. Hersch.

Asks For Probe Of Drinking Habits

'Bottle Under Table Vicious Archaic,' Declares Woman Member

Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Chn., Vancouver-Point-Gray) is advocating a Royal Commission on liquor again.

The dynamic Mrs. Rolston asked two years ago that a full study of the liquor laws of the province be made, and Thursday in the Legislature she repeated the request, adding:

"When we find out what the conditions are, let's have a plebiscite to find out what the people want. Then we could settle down to a proper, well-regulated distribution of the stuff."

She said she deplored the increasing sales of liquor and regretted "like the snake swallowing its tail" the money made from the sale of alcohol had to be used to repair the damage it created.

Mrs. Rolston said the "bottle under the table" condition, winked at by the police, was "archaic and vicious."

NOT DISCIPLINED

Canadians were not disciplined drinkers as the people of England were, and forcing them to buy a bottle and drink it "on the spot" led to untold trouble—traffic accidents and delinquency, she said.

"But I cannot be sure that if you had beer and wines at meals your last state wouldn't be worse than your first," she said, "because we have no light wines in this country."

"What we have are too heavy," Mrs. Rolston then had a few words of criticism of the B.C. Power Commission's new building in Victoria which she thought was, perhaps, the most expensively-built provincial buildings in the province.

"Maybe some of the money which is made from the power could be put into cheaper rural electrification," she said with sarcasm.

'EVERYONE WENT WILD'

Wholesaler Doubles Sales In Housewives' Butter Rush

The housewife is once again caught in the critical crossfire of wholesaler and retailer, some of whom feel she has purchased more than her normal supplies of butter to beat an anticipated price increase.

Opinion was divided, however, as to "panic buying."

IN EVERY ORDER

"Everyone went wild... sales were doubled," said one wholesaler. "Every retail customer put a pound of butter in her order whether she needed it or not. If they continue to buy that way there will be a shortage next week."

While another wholesaler found "...we sold a few extra boxes, but nothing to get excited about." A third did not see any shortage if reports of butter supplies across Canada were correct.

Butter per pound is 62 and 63 cents today. Reports hint of 75 cent-a-pound butter.

FIVE TIMES NORMAL

"Our sales went to a rather ridiculous figure yesterday," said one retailer. "We sold five times our normal amount. We're not rationing or putting the price up."

"We have sufficient stocks for a couple of weeks of normal buying but I've no idea where replacements are coming from. Of course, the picture can change overnight."

Govt. Stakes Life On Welfare Plan

DUBLIN (AP)—The government of the republic called today for creation of a new state welfare set-up which would cost $61,600,000 a year.

The coalition government of Premier John Costello, never seriously challenged since it took office in 1948, risked its existence on the hotly-controversial issue.

The vote in the republic's Dail, or Parliament, will come next week.

Employers and workers would share equally $19,600,000 of the total cost. The rest would come from the treasury.

Main opposition to the bill has come from the nation's farmers who claim the bill is designed almost solely to benefit the city workers.

Yanks Getting Careless Of Enemy Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dispatch cleared through the Korean war censorship cables a chilling warning that the American Eighth Army is carelessly vulnerable to enemy air attacks.

The dispatch from AP correspondent Tom Badshaw says:

"The U.N. Army in Korea has grown dangerously contemptuous of the enemy's air power. There just hasn't been any fear thus far. Allied units are camped brazenly along river bottoms and in exposed valleys—sitting-duck targets for air attacks."

"A flight over the front line plainly shows this danger. The Allied side is a beehive of obvious activity but when the actual front line is reached there is no sign of the enemy."

This situation exists even though the Chinese are believed to have a combat air force of up to 3,000 planes, including fighters and medium bombers. And there is no guarantee this air power will not be unleashed in an all-out Red drive to defeat the U.N. forces.

Throughout the entire war the Americans have been guilty of poor camouflage and poor dispersal of troops, supplies, planes and vehicles behind the front lines.

Ottawa Soldiers May Be First Korea War Dead

OTTAWA (CP)—Two young Ottawa district soldiers have died of wounds suffered while fighting with Canadian troops in Korea. Their families have been informed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic O'Brien of nearby Billings Bridge were notified their son, Pte. Kenneth O'Brien, 19, had been killed in action Feb. 23, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Colbourne have received word their son, Pte. Thomas Colbourne, 23, has died of wounds. Army headquarters decline to say whether the two are the first men killed since the Patricia's went into action in Korea.

EQUAL PAY FOR MEN AND WOMEN, ONTARIO'S PLAN

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Government in the next few days will bring legislation before the provincial Legislature to provide equal pay for both men and women doing the same jobs, the Toronto Star says in a newspaper story today.

The story says legal and labor officials say the step may require a new section of the Labor Department, headed by a director. The legislation is expected to affect mainly workers in offices, stores and factories where women sometimes now draw less pay than men engaged in the same work.

It said the legislation will not have any connection with the Minimum Wage Act because in Ontario the only minimum wage is for women.

Abbott Follows His Own Advice

FINANCE MINISTER ABBOTT HAS issued his second appeal to provincial and municipal governments to reduce their spending and hence their upward pressures on prices. Up to now his advice has had no visible effect, certainly none on the Government of British Columbia or on any municipality that we know of.

Provincial finance ministers and municipal councils, it is to be suspected, do not believe that Mr. Abbott is following his own advice. Federal Government expenditures of all sorts are generally supposed to be on the increase. This Mr. Abbott denies. Apart from defence spending, which must rise drastically, the Federal Government, he says, is cutting down expenses all along the line.

As soon as the Korean war broke out, Mr. Abbott tells Parliament, he asked all Government departments to reduce their expenditures. "Substantial results" have been achieved and "the expenditures for the first nine months of this year, up to the end of December, are below those of last year in most departments. They are substantially below the estimates presented to and voted by this House and I venture to say that when we close our books at the end of this fiscal year (March 31) a very creditable result in the way of a reduction in controllable civilian expenditure will have been achieved."

Out of such economies and larger revenues than he expected Mr. Abbott had a surplus of about $450 millions in the calendar year of 1950. That means the Government was taking more money out of the spending stream than it was putting in and thus reducing the primary cause of inflation, which is too much money in circulation.

When he introduces his next budget we shall see how much money Mr. Abbott has saved in the civilian departments, how much he proposes to save in the next year. The provincial and municipal budgets of the nation, now being put together, will show whether there are to be any substantial economies in the provinces and municipalities. So far as British Columbia is concerned the chances of economy are about nil at the moment.

But it is not too late for the Provincial Government and the municipalities here to take a second look at their spending plans, to heed Mr. Abbott's advice and to recognize that nothing is more inflationary than the expenditures of governments which compete for available goods against the consumer. And nothing will be more ironic and dishonest than protests in our Legislature against inflation, demands for price controls and a general air of virtue if the Legislature itself is helping to generate inflation by increased spending.

It will be especially ironic if Mr. Winch protests against inflation when he is never tired of demanding even larger expenditures than this easy-spending Provincial Government is prepared to undertake.

Tangible Proof

THE REMARK HAS BEEN CREDITED to U.S. Senator Paul Douglas: "If you offer hungry people their choice of four freedoms or four sandwiches, they will probably take the four sandwiches." That, in a nutshell, is the principle that today governs the attitude of the democracies to needy nations, particularly those in Asia. If a hungry man thinks more of food than of his personal or national freedom, let us feed him so that he can turn his attention to those important questions. It is the basic idea of the Colombo Plan, for instance, under which Commonwealth nations will contribute $5 billions over the next six years to the industrial rehabilitation of South East Asia. It is also the essential ingredient of measures now being finalized in Washington, whereby the United States will ship 1,000,000 tons of grain to India in the near future, to be followed by a similar amount at a later date. Smaller wheat shipments will be made by Canada.

The American plan, the result of a request from India, presents a forthright attack on the problem facing that country's hungry millions. A number of factors—drought, locusts, floods—have brought the Indian food supply to a critical level. Tragic consequences could have followed the refusal of North America to respond. While Pakistan is in a relatively better position than the Indian republic, her exportable surplus of wheat—about half a million tons—would not go far in saving her neighbor from starvation. Too, Pakistan is not in so favorable a position as Canada and the United States to make large allocations on a gift basis.

The United States will contribute her grain using the technique of the Marshall Plan, or counterpart system. Under this arrangement the grain will be given outright to the Government of India, which then will sell it through normal distribution channels and direct the receipts into a fund for the development and improvement of the Indian economy.

The Canadian shipments will be made as part of the Colombo Plan, constituting a portion of the $25 millions this country plans to donate during the first year of its operation. In total, the North American contribution will spell the difference between life and death for many thousands of India's people, tangible proof that the democracies have a humanitarian as well as a political interest in the future of the sub-continent.

The Winch Plan

MR. WINCH'S SOLUTION OF THE British Columbia hospital insurance problem is simple—he would unload the deficits of the insurance fund upon the general taxpayers.

This is perfectly clear from the text of his recent radio speech. He says: "We believe that if it is right and just, as it is, that old age pensioners, mothers' pensioners and those on social welfare cannot afford to pay hospital premiums and therefore they are paid out of consolidated revenue, that the same principle should apply to all other citizens in low income category groups."

In other words Mr. Winch would transform an insurance scheme into a state service, very largely financed out of general taxes.

There is no visible end to this process. Mr. Winch says that "low income category groups" should get hospital service free, the Government paying the cost out of taxes. He does not say what the "low income category groups" are. He does not draw any line. But assuredly if we once accept the principle of free hospitalization—apart, of course from those like state pensioners who obviously cannot pay—then no stable line can be drawn.

If we decide this year that persons with a certain income shall pay nothing, then next year we shall face a demand for free service from the income group next highest in the scale. For example, if people with $2,000 a year are to escape, the people with $2,100 will certainly object, and justly, when they have to pay not only for their own hospitalization but, in increased taxes, for the hospitalization of their neighbors next door. Thus step by step the insurance scheme is unloaded on the treasury and the taxpayers.

Moreover, Mr. Winch has a simple remedy. He would not get the necessary money from the taxpayers. He would get it from "greater revenue from basic natural resources taxation." In other words, he would soak the rich and the big corporations.

Having no income tax, the Provincial Government cannot soak the rich. The Federal Government is doing that already and will do more of it. As for the big corporations, their increasing taxes, under the Winch plan, will be handed on to the public in prices.

In the end, if the Government is to finance the deficits of the hospital insurance system, the general mass of the taxpayers will supply the money. Insurance, with each person paying for what he gets, will become state charity, paid for by the ordinary citizen.

Our Chance To Help Again

LAST YEAR GREATER VICTORIA showed its appreciation for the work of the Canadian Red Cross by oversubscribing in three weeks the community's quota in the national campaign for funds. This year the fine agency which lends a hand where it is most needed hopes Victorians will display the same generosity in even shorter time. The Canadian Red Cross has asked our community for $67,000, a sum $2,900 above the 1950 objective, and has expressed the desire to complete the money-raising job in two weeks from the opening of the campaign yesterday.

To detail the work of the Canadian Red Cross would be to cover ground familiar to our citizens. A brief list of services should suffice. Among them are disaster assistance, services for veterans and dependents, blood transfusion, Junior Red Cross, women's work and international relief. Maintenance of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, outpost hospitals and nursing stations, and such health and safety activities as swimming and water safety instruction, first aid, help for crippled children, operations of mobile medical and dental clinics, schoolroom supply loan cupboards and homemakers and nutrition services.

Anyone acquainted with the Red Cross understands what the items in that list mean in human terms. That knowledge should be sufficient to persuade us to maintain our excellent record of support. Quick action will enable us to be among the first to furnish, or exceed, our quota of the $550,000 which has been sought from British Columbia.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

YOU can instantly distinguish the amateur farmer at this season. The smell of lime and sulphur spray, the haunting aroma of old eggs, clings to every countryman and you will be wise to keep him out of your house. A sudden outpouring of odor, and not the odor of flowers, proclaims the first frail days of spring.

For the next month or so the countryman will carry spring with him and he should be carefully avoided. The lime and sulphur badge of spring is worn on the bark of fruit trees, on the clothes of the orchardist, in his hair, in his skin and in his soul. It is most apparent in his skin. When you see the ruddy cheeks of your friend from Saanich do not envy him his rude health. That is just the usual angry rash left by lime and sulphur. He does not have health, he has dermatitis.

WITH a deep and hollow laughter I read in the gardening columns of the newspapers that this is the time to spray fruit trees. In print it sounds like an agreeable chore for a Saturday afternoon. Did a garden columnist ever spray a fruit tree? Probably just once, and after that decided to spray the public with advice instead.

Poor innocent gardener who is planting little fruit trees in the spring, do not let me disillusion you. I shall say only that an orchard is a worse tyrant than Stalin and more cunning. Stalin grows older and weaker and shrinks a little every year. The fruit tree is good for a century anyway, grows larger, clutches you in its spreading limbs and finally weaves its roots among your bones.

FOR a time, when he is young and the trees disarmingly small, a man may actually enjoy digging, hoeing, pruning and picking, but any man who enjoys spraying must have a vile and unnatural appetite for chemicals. Observe then, the countryman in spraying time (observe me, if you will, though I would prefer not), with buckets of fetid mixtures, with tangled hoses, with jets that always get blocked up to explode in your face, and probably with the wife of his bosom bent double over the pump handle.

Observe the gentle cloud of yellow settling like dew upon the fruit trees and upon the sprayer's face, each speck stinging like fire, until he rushes to the nearest tap to extinguish the conflagration. And observe at nightfall—if you have a nose at all you cannot help observing—how the man and wife who, 20 years before, read the gardening columns and committed the folly of planting, slink—soaked, exhausted and noisome—back to their house, where even the dog refuses to come near them for a week.

IF you had been with me last week-end you might have observed a sight more moving. Another victim of the gardening columns has moved into this district. He has found half a dozen little fruit trees already growing and the sight has turned his head. With tiny portable sprayer he descends upon the trees, uttering deep groans of pleasure, his wife cheers from the background, his tiny daughter squeals with childish delight at the prospect of apples next fall, and the inevitable tragedy is under way.

I HAVE seen it all so many times that I am hardened and will not lift a finger or utter a neighborly warning over the fence to stay the hand of hate. Were I a good neighbor I would rush to this poor man's rescue. I would tell him the facts of life before it is too late, I would warn him that soon he will have to pick tons of apples when the little girl has grown up and sensibly married a smart fellow from the city and there is no one to eat the fruit, unless he packs it, grades it and delivers it free to his city friends.

I would explain to my neighbor the endless years of toil stretching before him and the uncounted carloads of apples that will lie mouldering in his basement to be burned in the spring. I would snatch the sprayer from his hand and offer him an axe to be applied without delay to the trunks of the trees.

NOW I am too old and too cynical to care and, in spraying time, enjoy the company of the miserable and soaked. Let my neighbor find out for himself. Let his trees grow, his child marry, his cellar reek, his body bend a little more every year under the load, his life smell of lime and sulphur. See if I care. All men must learn these follies for themselves in due time while the garden columnists sit back, far beyond the sprayer's reach, and laugh quietly to themselves, the cool devils.

HAVING an open mind and a skin peculiarly susceptible to the poison of lime and sulphur, I learned fast. About 10 years of spring soaking and autumn picking were enough to convince me that an orchard has only one real use—to be cut down and burned for fuel. And when I saw how I had pruned my trees by the instructions of the garden columns—into shapes which made the Government's horticulturists weep, when I saw my hideous signature inscribed across the sky in a scrawl of tortured branches, when I realized what I had done to nature and knew by the itch what nature had done to me, I went to the basement and got the axe.

Alas, my wife, poor, wretched, seized the merciful weapon from my hand before I could apply it, the tyrant trees were left to stand, once more the spray flows in the springtime and the old smell drowns out the perfume of the violet patch. My wife has suffered poetic justice. Having rejected the axe, her hands are fastened to the pump.

When it comes to the seeds of peace, there seems to have been a crop failure.

Agenda For The Coming Big Four Parley

"LET'S US TALK ABOUT HIM!"

As Our Readers See It

WHEAT EXPORTS

Tonight's Times (Feb. 21) contains a report that Canada is sending wheat to "famine-ridden India and Pakistan."

I have before me a Canadian Grain Trade Journal dated August 18, 1950, which states:

"The exportable wheat surplus of Pakistan is placed at 18,700,000 bushels from a bumper crop of 150 million bushels."

May be all right but it seems funny to me.

NAVY LEADERSHIP

The other day we heard the news that U.N. navy forces would be under the leadership of the U.S.A. Surely Mr. Winston Churchill and all people who have admired all through history the splendid record of the Royal Navy are justly surprised.

If ever the world needs men whose motto is "England expects every man to do his duty" more than ever, it is this day and age. Then we hear the sweeping statement, "The Canadians don't mind." I for one certainly do mind. I wonder what the boys feel who have just returned from Korea, and are shortly to return.

This is, I realize, no time to split hairs, but surely tried men who for generations have made it their life work, should know more than a comparatively new country. At a time like this we need the best.

GIRL GUIDES TOO

I have read with appreciation the leading article entitled "A Symbol of Character" in your issue of Feb. 23, wherein you pay a worthy tribute to the founder of the Boy Scout Movement.

But the late Lord Baden-Powell's interest in youth extended to girls, and in 1910 he started the Girl Guides Association which has now spread throughout the world, save for totalitarian countries where it is forbidden.

Our system of training and character building is based on his book, Scouting for Boys, with, of course, emphasis on work and badges which are essentially feminine. And, a fact which is not generally known, the birthday of the World Chief Guide Lady Baden-Powell falls also on Feb. 22, so "Thinking Day" as that date is called by Scouts and Guides, commemorates for us a double anniversary.

NOT SATISFIED

The recent letter signed "Fed-Up" will be echoed in the hearts of thousands in B.C. He is right—hospital insurance is a tax—not a "service."

Never was a provincial government so cordially—and justly—hated as our present crew. The only time we hear from the government these days is when some fresh persecution has been prepared against us—the people of the province.

That evil thing—the Coalition—is the only thing that saves the government's neck.

I never thought to understand the feeling of the French people about the iniquitous "salt tax" but our present government has given me this understanding.

CLEANER CITY

New suggestions and slogans to promote the interests of Victoria and district having been invited, may I suggest the following improvements and the expressive slogan of "Victoria, the Clean City" in the hopes that all citizens and authorities will do their part in attaining and maintaining that desirable condition. Not, of course, that this is now a dirty city, but none can deny that there is good ground for improvement at present.

Clean streets, clean sidewalks, clean stores and cafes and other establishments dealing with tourist and resident, neat residences are all assets to a city that cannot be overestimated and they long remain in a visitor's memory. The joy of a good meal, tastefully cooked and served can be spoiled by the sight of a dirty alley in the rear of the building or by untidy kitchens. Some cities grade the restaurants according to sanitary conditions and issue cards for public display.

Appearance of many shops could well be improved by painting. Why don't the paint dealers put on a "Paint Up and Brighten Up" campaign for two or three weeks and help out with lower prices? Victoria claims with good reason to be a City of Gardens, but how much better the city would look if all the fences were painted? Much work and some expense is well rewarded in the sight of the hanging flower baskets, but what a contrast in nearby neighborhoods where sow thistle and other weeds are left to flourish at the base of poles on the street and on vacant land. These eyesores could easily be removed and in the latter case the cost charged to the owner if he did not do the removal himself. This is necessary to avoid weed infestation spreading.

Other items are for the city to discontinue the use of open trucks to collect garbage; action to eradicate the filthy practice of spitting on sidewalks, which in some cities is punishable by fine; more use be made of the "litter-bins" throughout the city and have stores encourage their use by their customers instead of throwing the candy wrappers, etc., on the street.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

The Vista

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP, from Washington

DESPITE some ominous new signs on the horizon, the present international atmosphere is decidedly less tense, distinctly more hopeful, than it was in December. The wave of despair that engulfed the leadership in Washington (and in most other Western capitals) after the Chinese intervention in Korea, has at least subsided. The hope that the deterrents which are being so carefully paraded may actually do their work, is now rather generally held.

If it is permissible to make a guess—and one can only guess—the masters of the Kremlin seriously intended to launch the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations when the preparations for these attacks were first noted. December, after all, was their good time, when it was natural for them to plan boldly. If one may guess further, the developments in the interval have persuaded them that the game is not worth the candle, and they have therefore adopted new tactics.

The first instalment of these tactics is now only too visible. All the signs suggest that the Conference of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four, which has been the subject of so long an exchange of notes, is to be the scene of a final, grandiose attempt to split the Western alliance.

No one can say how far the Kremlin will be willing to gamble the positions it now holds in Germany and elsewhere in order to divide Britain, France and the United States.

But while no one can foresee the Soviet methods, the Soviet aim is perfectly plain—split the West for good and all, and thereby achieve the great objective, which is to halt western rearmament.

Perhaps the Soviets may attain this objective, by the follies of the Western leadership. If the Soviets fail, we must certainly expect another interlude of acute and imminent danger this summer. A spring conference of foreign ministers that does not satisfy the Kremlin can all too easily be transformed into the prelude to a summer attack all along the line.

Then, if we get through this summer, a new and very different time of danger will begin within another 12-month, when the Soviet Union will have accumulated a large enough stock of atomic weapons to make a crippling surprise attack on the United States. And if this danger, which is universally underrated, does not in the end materialize, there will be another long period of political raids and jockeyings and pressures on obvious soft-spots like the Middle East, which will also be very perilous.

In peering forward down this bleak vista, however, there is no reason to lose heart. The point to remember is that we have experienced many other great perils, from the time of the Iranian crisis, from the grand politico-economic onslaught on Western Europe down through the Chinese intervention in Korea and the threats to Yugoslavia and Indo-China.

All these perils thus far we have survived by stoutness and resolution. Let us be stout, let us be resolute, let us be wise, and the perils of the future may turn out, in the end, to be no more disastrous than the perils of the past.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where the Island Indians are complaining that they aren't getting enough for their native wool sweaters. With inflation boosting their own costs, they want to up the selling price and stay in business. For every advantage the white man has brought the Indian, he's certainly brought him a lot of disadvantages too. I suppose for thousands of years, before the white man came, Indians traded their products for the same price. A pair of moccasins, I guess, always brought the same number of arrow heads. A good bow was always worth the same value in stone dishes. Things were stable. The only depressions were when meat got scarce. The only bull markets were when chiefs overbid each other in giving potlatch presents. Came the white man and all that was changed. He brought law and order, of a sort, and an economic system that's usually out of sorts. Going up!

"It's natural enough," said the Elevator Man, "for us to want to get paid all we think we're worth. Probably no period of history has provided more incentives for people to improve themselves and so be worth more. Hundreds of thousands of people in the world spend their whole lives teaching other people to be smarter so they'll be higher paid—maybe make even more than the teachers. That twists the old saying to: 'Don't do as I do, do as I wish I was doing.' Lower main!

"But everybody," said the Elevator Man, "is so ambitious. You may remember that story of the negro doorman. A book salesman was trying to sell the old fellow a set of volumes. He described in glowing phrases the great wealth of knowledge they contained, the vast store of information he could gain from them. The negro listened patiently, and finally gave his answer. 'No thank you, sah. 'Twouldn't be no manner o' use to me, 'cause I knows heaps more now than I gets paid for.'"

Spoken By Friends

New York Times

WINSTON CHURCHILL might even have been accused of understatement when he said to the House of Commons, "No one is going to argue that I am hostile to the United States." Mr. Churchill is rightly accounted as one of our warmest and stanchest friends.

When he raises the question, therefore, of the propriety of naming an American commander for the naval forces of the North Atlantic nations he deserves more than passing notice. If we wound the just pride and earnest dignity of so loyal and devoted a comrade we have good reason for prompt and critical self-examination.

There were undoubtedly good reasons why an American chief was suggested for this naval force. There are, however, obviously good reasons why this suggestion should be closely examined. If a decision has been made there are good reasons why it should be carefully reviewed.

Mr. Churchill's plain speaking should be warmly welcomed, not discounted. Mutuality of effort and mutuality of trust are imperative. We certainly have no intention of running a "one-nation show." If there are any doubts on that score in the British mind they should be met and resolved.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative Opposition hammered Thursday at the government's emergency powers bill, contending that Parliament was being asked to surrender authority to the cabinet.

United Church Plans Move On Liquor Ballot

"If there are to be any plebiscites on changes in the liquor laws, Victoria's United Church leaders are determined that the people shall know the significance of the ballot."

Rev. S. V. H. Redman, of Victoria West United Church, said today that this was the purpose of a resolution passed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The resolution, which will be presented to Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, calls upon the provincial government to request that the federal government set up a Royal Commission to make a public inquiry into every phase of the manufacture and sale of liquor.

"This is not a resolution asking for prohibition," said Mr. Redman.

Would Increase Income Tax For Education Costs

A 1 per cent increase in income taxes for education was suggested in the Legislature Thursday by the North Okanagan M.L., Charles Morrow, K.C.

He was pleading the case of the landowner whose taxes for school purposes had doubled and in some cases tripled in recent years.

"The only suitable means of taxing for education should be based on ability to pay," he said.

Education in B.C. was costing $42,000,000 a year. Of that amount the provincial government was paying $18,000,000, not including $8,000,000 from the sales tax which might be intended for school purposes but had never been allocated specifically for education.

This meant municipalities had to find $24,000,000 for schools.

Blames Socialism For Downfall Of Many Countries

Socialism caused the downfall of many great civilizations, Clarke Christie, Swift Canadian Co., industrial relations department, told the Victoria Rotary Club Thursday.

Egypt, Babylon, Persia, Assyria, Greece and Rome all fell as a direct result of the party in power—the rulers—attempting to provide greater benefits to more people through and by the central government, he said.

Mr. Christie charged socialism was very close to Communism and warned Communists were bent on making Canada a Russian satellite.

He said each individual had a part to play in the fight against Communist forces and citizens should never feel the international situation too big for them to do anything about.

ATOMIC SHELLS THOUGHT BETTER THAN H-BOMBS

WASHINGTON (UP)—David E. Lilienthal believes the atomic artillery shells this country is developing will be better weapons than the H-bomb.

The former Atomic Energy Commission chairman expressed in a Collier's Magazine article today the hydrogen "super bomb" can be made. He said "gigantic 'ifs'" stand in the way.

"The development of smaller explosions of atomic weapons that can be used tactically as artillery may well," he said, "be more important militarily."

Lilienthal did not mention the recent atomic explosions in Nevada but it is known those tests involved development of tactical weapons with atomic warheads.

Water Requirements Of Plants Differ

By HILDA BEASTALL

Much as been written on the subject of watering pot plants, but still many questions are asked.

"To water as becomes necessary" is apparently a phrase without any definite meaning to most amateur window gardeners. Otherwise the question of how often to water would not be asked so frequently. It is more a question of under what conditions to water than of how often, and there are many indications of the need for watering a plant before it becomes wilted.

Lift the pot from the saucer or other container—if the bottom of the flower pot is quite dry to the touch, and the saucer is perfectly dry, watering may be necessary.

On the other hand, if the pot is comparatively heavy, and the soil on the surface of the pot is still moist to the touch, water is not yet required.

EXPERIENCE BEST TEACHER

You can see that experience is the best teacher in the business of administering drinks to the plant kingdom.

Individual groups of plants have different water requirements. Ferns, palms and some other plants grown for their handsome foliage should never be allowed to become dry. Neither should they stand in surplus water. This is also true for bulbous plants while growing and in bloom.

I have found some flowering plants, such as the fibrous geraniums, begonias, fuchsias, schizanthus, and stock will harden into flower buds earlier if allowed to become almost dry between waterings. Grow with abundant moisture to blooming size, and then watch the soil condition carefully in order to administer water just in time to prevent wilting.

And then water well.

Cabinet Members Say Comparisons Unfair

Premier Byron Johnson and Health Minister Douglas Turnbull both expressed annoyance in the Legislature Thursday at comparisons some members have been using in criticism of the hospital insurance service.

The Coalition whip, Charles Morrow, K.C., of North Okanagan, brought them to their feet during Throne Speech debate.

He wondered if hospital rates would have doubled in recent years if hospital insurance had not been in effect.

Public ward rates at Vancouver General Hospital were close to $13 a day now, and at Jubilee Hospital here over $11. But in Montreal the rate was $6.50. "I wish," he said as he jumped from his seat, "that people would get their facts right before they talk," Mr. Turnbull said.

"There seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding on the service being given through hospital insurance," said Mr. Johnson.

Backed By Wismer, Anglers And Hunters Win Large Concession

By LLOYD BAKER

Fish and game interests of the province have won an uphill battle after years on the trail for a substantial share of game department revenues for conservation work.

Granted they've had the weight of Attorney-General Gordon Wismer behind them, but he's only one of 11 players on the Provincial cabinet team which has the final say.

Word of the victory for the fishermen and hunters came at the end of the Thursday sitting of the Legislature when the government introduced a bill, through the Attorney-General, to amend the Game Act.

It provides for the setting up of a Game Conservation Fund with 75 per cent of all revenues from hunting and fishing licenses, fines and other sources, after the Game Department operation costs have been paid.

On the basis of last year's collections and expenses, it means something like $135,000 for the fund as a starter.

The money will be used solely for propagation and conservation of fish and game, and allocation will be under cabinet control.

It is now expected fees and levies in the wildlife industry now will be raised by order-in-council with the full blessings of the sportsmen.

Associations of hunters and fishermen throughout the province have used this as a selling point for a conservation fund.

They've said they will be willing to pay higher fees if some of the money collected will be put back into Mother Nature's purse.

As one member had said in the House earlier: "It'll be like casting your bread on the water and getting it back buttered."

That member was North Okanagan's Charles Morrow who had spoken at length on behalf of the sportsmen not knowing the legislation was to be introduced.

"Got quick results, eh?" he joked later.

The point he had made was that game revenue will increase if the government builds up the streams and forests with fish and game for the angling and gun-toting fraternity.

SPORT WEEK

By JOHN LARDNER

Ray Robinson is, among other things, an adopted son of France and one of that nation's highest vicarious heroes since Bonnie Prince Charlie. That, as you probably know, is because he beat the carcass of Jake La Motta like a kettle drum, and so won revanche for the French for the disaster of the Narrows back in 1949.

The Narrows, or Detroit, was the scene of La Motta's victory over Marcel Cerdan, France's world champion middleweight, who accidentally lost the use of his best arm during the fight. The French did not like Jacob at that time. They liked him even less a little later, when he delayed a return match with Cerdan to a point where the Frenchman had to take a plane in which he crashed to his death. Reasoning closely, it cannot be said that La Motta meant things to happen that way. But France was in no mood to split hairs. If Jake was the Bronx's answer to civilization (and he was), the French didn't like the answer.

Neutrality, Where Art Thou?

So there were three French newspapermen at the ringside in Chicago last month and thousands of citizens offering public thanksgiving in the Paris streets, when Robinson avenged the late Cerdan by knocking La Motta loose from everything but the perpendicular (Jake will probably be buried at right angles to the earth's surface; he just cannot lie down). The three French journalists at the ringside wept with joy, or something similar.

But there was one Frenchman present—one Alsatian, at any rate—who did not celebrate. He was a M. Armand (the Weskit) Weill, and his department struck Robinson and his stable as being in the worst possible taste. In fact, they were still complaining about it several days later. They said they had heard M. Weill—indeed, you could hear him in Gary—advising La Motta in tones of brass throughout the fight, and exhorting him to rip Robinson apart. What kind of conduct was that, they asked, for a matchmaker, a promoter, an alleged neutral?

People are always asking things like that about Weill the matchmaker, the neutral. It is an interesting case, and I propose to examine it slightly.

The Case Of The Deviated Septum

True, the Weskit was not exactly a matchmaker in Chicago, though he works for the far-flung house of Norris, which staged the La Motta-Robinson fight there. M. Weill's matchmaking here is New York. It may be that he is entitled to become a partisan when he leaves his own town. It may be that his devotion to La Motta was based on a frustrating personal experience, when Robinson took the welterweight championship away from the Weskit without striking a blow.

That was when a fighter of M. Weill's, Marty Servo, held the title, somewhat to the surprise of all parties. Servo would have been a happy champion, and Weill a happy manager, if people in authority had not kept asking them to risk the crown against Robinson. They agreed, at least, to do so, but you could see that the Weskit was thinking deeply, and before you knew it, Servo came down with a deviated septum. That put him out of action, and Robinson won the championship in his absence. Afterward, Servo's septum undeviated.

The Act Will Be Appreciated

M. Weill's objection to Robinson, in fact it involves this case, can obviously be nothing more than the mere fact that Robinson exists. However, many men work up objections on less.

In New York, where M. Weill is now a matchmaker instead of a manager, his neutrality should be above question. And, except in several instances, it is. One such instance is that of a certain Rocky Marciano. M. Weill managed Marciano before he became matchmaker at Madison Square Garden. When he became a matchmaker, and a neutral, somebody else took over the fighter's management. But there are people in the boxing business who insist that on a cloudy day, it is very hard to tell the difference between somebody else and M. Weill.

There is talk of a match in the Garden soon between Marciano and Joe Louis. In such a match, whom will M. Weill cheer for? Or will he choke down his biases, use a good neutral? Many of the Weskit's neighbors will attend the fight, if it takes place, for the sake of the choking sequence alone.

Island Cage Final Looms As Sellout

Manager Don Woodhouse grinned. "I guess most of the Victoria fans feel the way we do about this Island series with Alberni."

Don and all the Victoria individuals are happy about the way ticket sales have been going for tonight's third game with Alberni.

Although 400 additional seats have been installed at Badminton Hall, only a few ducats are left.

The individuals take this as an indication that hoop followers in the city share their belief that Cleaners can win the next three straight.

Alberni won the first two games of the best-of-five series at Alberni last week-end, 61 to 48 and 59 to 54.

Several of the players have been turning out mornings for individual practices, and the team has been put through stiff workouts for the games ahead.

The Individual-Alberni game, slated for 9, will be preceded by two other playoff tilts.

C. & C. Taxi intermediate B girls will meet Parkville at 6 in the second of a two-game total-points series for the Island title. The city team has a 25-point edge.

At 7:30 First United will go against Alberni in the first game of a total-point series for the Island junior boys' title.

If individuals can get by Alberni tonight, the fourth game will be played at the Badminton Hall tomorrow night, with a fifth, if necessary, scheduled for Monday.

City Clubs Seek Island Hoop Titles

Two city basketball teams were on their way up-island today in search of Island championships.

Intermediate B Tillamooks will meet Cumberland on their home floor in the first game of a total-points island final.

McNutt's junior girls are at Duncan for the second game of their series with Duncan girls. The city team holds a seven-point lead.

Sampson Repeater

Hedley Sampson, Vic High cinder-track star, repeated last year's triumph in the annual Inter-High road race when he pounded over the 3.1-mile course Wednesday in 17 minutes and 46 seconds. Close behind him, and pressing during the final quarter-mile, was teammate Pete Kirchner.

Jack Moffat of University School, who placed third, was the only runner to break Vic High domination of the meet. Dick Wood, Geoff Conway, Ted Whan and Ron Birch, all of the Fernwood Road squad, finished in that order.

In the meantime, McMorran's intermediate B boys were whipping Saanichton 29 to 26 in an exhibition contest at Lake Hill gym. Alan Snowsall, with 13 points, was top scorer for the motor court men.

In a preliminary at Lake Hill McMorran's intermediate B girls whipped Brentwood girls 26 to 15.

BRENTWOOD GAME TONIGHT

Four games, two cup tilts and two exhibitions, will be played at Brentwood Community Hall tonight.

The feature frame will see Brentwood senior B men in action against Western Heat of the city league.

Brentwood and Saanichton pee-wee girls will open the program at 7, followed by an exhibition between Brentwood's midgets and pee-wees.

The semi-windup will bring Brentwood and Sidney together in an intermediate B boys' game in the Ernie Stock competition.

FARMERS LEAD

At Sooke Community Hall, Farmer Construction took a first-round victory over Sooke intermediate boys, 33 to 26, to lead the series for the Ernie Stock Trophy. Second game will be played next week at the Centennial gym.

In the meantime, McMorran's intermediate B boys were

A 3½-month-long famine ended last night for Montreal Canadiens, to the delight of 14,438 partisan National Hockey League fans.

Ever since the middle of last November, Canadiens have been trying to beat Toronto Maple Leafs. They came close often enough but it wasn't until last night that they succeeded, turning back the Leafs 3 to 1 at Montreal Forum.

The victory was notable from several points of view. It kept the Canadiens in the fight for one of the four playoff spots.

Montreal	20	27	12	137	155	52
Chicago	13	27	10	151	217	36

Saturday: Detroit at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto, New York at Boston.

It put the brakes, at least temporarily, on Toronto's attempts to overhaul the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. And it marked one of those rare occasions when Maurice (Rocket) Richard has been able to score against the Leafs this season.

Montreal needed the victory badly, particularly in view of the fact that New York Rangers were pulling into a third-place tie with Boston Bruins by defeating the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 1 in Chicago.

SUMMARIES FOLLOW:

TORONTO 1, MONTREAL 3

First period—1, Montreal, Roger (Harvey) 12:19. 2, Montreal, Richard (Olinstead, Harvey) 18:14. Penalties: Grestion (major), Sloan (major), Bentley, Harvey, Pisman.

Second period—2, Montreal, Lach (Harvey) 5:06. 4, Toronto, Klutsky (Bentley, Mackell) 7:39. Penalties: Harvey, Gardiner, J. Hildner.

Third period—Scoring: none. Penalties: Thomson, Dussault, Bouchard, Sloan, Moeck.

NEW YORK 4, CHICAGO 1

First period—1, New York, Toppanini (Sicclair) 1:15. Penalties: Gaudin, Ben. Second period—2, New York, Toppanini (Sicclair, O'Connor) 2:42. Penalties: Gaudin, Ben.

Third period—3, New York, Szwednick (Dickens, Morrison) 11:09. 5, New York, Stanley, 16:32. Penalties: none.

Hundreds Seek Tickets; Some Still Available

The line started forming shortly after 1:30; by 2, there were about 75 in the queue; at 2:30 the number had grown to 250, and by 3, four hours before tickets were to go on sale, there were approximately 500 persons lining the south side of Fort Street between Quadra and Blanshard.

They came equipped with their moses, lunches, camp chairs, kitchen chairs, apple boxes, orange boxes, chromium-plated stools, crossword puzzles, crib boards, makeshift card tables, cards and everyone had at least a minimum of $6 in his or her pocket.

PICKET DUTY

That is, except for the youngsters. Some were less flush; some had nothing, but were doing picket duty for as low as 15 cents an hour; others were there on orders from their parents.

There were young bucks, teenage beauties, middle-aged women, grey-haired men, and all were there for one purpose—to buy hockey tickets for three games that won't be played until next week and the week following.

But, more important, they were there to make certain they weren't going to be denied the right to see the Cougars in the Pacific Coast Hockey League playoffs.

By 7, the line-up had extended south on Quadra and west on Broughton.

Five and one-half hours later, the ticket sale closed as the end of the line was reached.

A sell-out? Hardly likely.

Though the line paralleled the 1925 queue that formed for the world championship series here between the "Old Cougars" and Montreal Canadiens, there were still some 800 to 900 tickets available for each of the Cougars' final three games and also for playoff seats.

General manager Fred Hutchinson, who got to bed at 3 this morning, said that such tickets would be available today. In all a total of 6,000 tickets were sold, leaving approximately 2,800 still available.

Meanwhile the Cougars have other business at hand tonight when they meet Tacoma Rockets at the Memorial Arena.

Four points behind the New Westminster Royals, the Cougars need the victory (which if accomplished will be No. 16 in an unbeaten home string) to stay within striking distance of the leaders.

Rockets Wednesday night knocked off the Royals, 4 to 2, at Westminster and are currently in third place in the league race. It was also the Rockets who handed the Cougars their last defeat on home ice—4 to 1—on Dec. 22, 1950.

Jim Ferrier 7-Under Par For Golf Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Jim Ferrier of San Francisco led the field into the second round of the St. Petersburg Open golf tournament today after a near-record-tying first round.

Ferrier fired a scorching seven-under-par 64—only one stroke over the course record—to take a three-stroke lead over Skeel Riegel of Tulsa and Pete Cooper of Ponte Vedra, Fla.

Ferrier shot birdies on all four par-five holes and got three more birdies on shorter holes for his brilliant round. He took a three on the par-four 10th hole with a 35-foot putt, and played the short 11th hole in two strokes with a 30-foot putt.

REGINA (CP)—Regina Pats last night eliminated Medicine Hat Tigers from further competition in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League this season by walloping the Patens 10 to 3 before some 3,000 fans.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

It's all-star time in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, that season of the year when press and radio men from the six cities in the circuit ballot for their "dream team." For the players chosen it means lasting recognition and, more to the point, $100 in their pockets. For those not picked, it means they have been slighted. For the owners it means a request for a $500-and-up raise for next year from the select six, and equal or lesser demands for increases from those who make the alternate or third squad.

And so with head in the bucket here goes. The dictum from league headquarters on the matter stipulates clearly that no Victoria player may be chosen by a Victoria elector.

Thus are eliminated, for the time being: Joe Evans, Eddie Dorohoy, and for the "rookie of the year" award, Reg Abbott and Stan Long. And there may even be others depending on how the Cougars have played away from home in the eyes of other selectors.

Standout For The Royals

For goal, it has to be Lucien Dechene, the backbone of the New Westminster team. The portly French Canadian will probably take the honor by a landslide though Cotnoir may give him a battle. According to Portland coach Tony Hemmerling, "The Cougars were made with Cotnoir's acquisition." Not being able to pick Jerry, we'll give the alternate berth to Tacoma's Doug Stevenson with Vancouver's Hee Highton the recipient of the consolation award. After playing with Murphy for half a season, Hee needs to be consoled.

On defense it's Rudy Brodeur of Portland as the first choice (after Leger), with Babe Pratt taking a close nod over Tacoma's Harry Bell for the second post. Then follow Danny Sprout of Portland, Norm Gustavsen of Tacoma and Bob Bergeron of New Westminster.

Take 'Em Or Leave 'Em

Now comes the tricky part of the chore—the forward lines.

For the starboard patrol, we'll start with Canucks' Bill Shill (plain poison to the Cougars) and taper off with Tacoma's Winger Johnston and Larry Silvestri of the Eagles.

There it is except for the most valuable player and outstanding rookie. And herein are posed two real problems. Leger should take the honor handily, but our vote must go to Dechene. He's held the Royals in first place. For second and third choices it's a toss up, with Bell being the most valuable to the Ironmen and Brodeur a standout for Portland.

The rookie selections, also of necessity, must go to the Royals threesome of Butch Houle, Bob Koch and Denny Huddleston, though Portland's Al Millar rates consideration on his few performances here.

That's it but for the Cougars.

Now For The Cougars

If we could, we'd rate Cotnoir just a notch below Dechene; replace Pratt on the defence with Leger; put Eddie Dorohoy into one of the centre berths; give Mazur serious thought for left wing; credit Evans, Burman and Frampton with honorable mention, and give Abbott and Long equal rating for the rookie award.

It should be realized that in making these selections, we see Victoria five times as often as we see visiting clubs. This is probably the reason for not being allowed to select home players. With every selector faced with the same problem, the results should equalize into a truly representative unit.

Victoria baseball fans will be pleased to hear that Gil McDougald is the talk of the New York Yankee training camp at Phoenix, Ariz. Gil played with the 1949 A's. And regarding the '51 A's, business manager Reg Patterson is off to the Portland training camp next week and manager Dick Barrett is due here in the city before Patterson's departure.

Bays Get Revenge; Cop Prep Hoop Title

As if in revenge for elimination from the recent Inter-High tournament, Oak Bay posted its sixth successive victory in the Victoria Inter-High Senior Basketball League yesterday and clinched the league title with a sound 60 to 42 drubbing of Vic High's House Two.

Since every other team in the league has two losses, with only one round left to play, Bays cannot be dislodged.

In other league games yesterday Esquimalt nudged Mount Douglas, 40 to 36; House Four whipped House Three, 46 to 38; and Mount View topped House One in a low-scoring game, 24 to 22.

VEITCH IS TOPS

At Oak Bay High the home team went into a 16 to 11 lead at the quarter and enlarged it to 31 to 23 at half time. In the third quarter House Two fell apart and only managed one free shot while the Bays pumped through 17 points to earn a commanding 46 to 24 lead.

The visitors outscored Oak Bay 18 to 12 in the last frame, but it wasn't good enough, and Bays came off the floor with their fifth straight victory.

Lawrence Veitch netted 26 points for the winners and his teammate, Nelson Crisp, pushed through 10 points. Jim Jahraus scored 19 points for House Two.

HARD TUSSELE

At the small Mount Douglas gym Esquimalt High found itself cramped and almost upset. The home team was down 21 to 18 at the breather, and 27 to 18 part way through the third quarter. They fought back to a two-point deficit at the end of the third frame and then went ahead 36 to 32 with four minutes left to play.

Esquimalt rallied to tie the score with one minute left. Then Saunders and Jackson sank baskets to end Mount Doug's hopes for a first win in the series.

MT. VIEW COMES BACK

Pete Zarzy and Jack Shields paced House Four to victory over House Three, getting 18 and 16 points, respectively. The winners took an early lead and were never headed, although it was a close contest throughout.

Mount View was forced to overcome a seven-point half-time deficit and counter stalling tactics by House One late in the game. Roger Windle let the winning basket go from 30 feet out with only five seconds left to play.

Line-ups follow:

Oak Bay—Veitch 26, Crisp 18, Jahraus 19, Mitchell 10, Lewis 8, Barnes 11, C. Smith 8, Smith 10, Priestly 4, Mitchell 4.

Feline Pole Sitters

IN ORDER to counteract a seeming misunderstanding on the part of many people, as well as in justice to some 700 members of the Victoria Branch, S.P.C.A., here are some facts with regard to the cat which made front-page news in a recent Victoria newspaper:

The local S.P.C.A. did everything possible, short of actually climbing the pole to rescue the cat in question.

Few people seem to know, or realize, that only experienced linesmen, with proper equipment may, with any degree of safety, climb poles carrying electric wires; that rescuing a cat from a pole presents an added hazard even for an experienced linesman; that inexperienced and unauthorized people attempting such a task are not only trespassing but are courting almost certain electrocution; that the removal of cats from poles by B.C.E.R. and/or Telephone Co. linesmen is purely an act of courtesy and humanity on the part of individual linesmen—there is no obligation.

The Victoria Branch S.P.C.A. owe a debt of gratitude to the linesmen of both these companies who have so often removed cats from poles.

If kindly-intentioned people will only leave feline pole sitters severely alone (this is not saying they should not report them) such cats will come down of their own accord nine times out of ten.

Trainer Says New Cat 'Actor' Presents His Biggest Problem

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As far as handling cat actors is concerned, Frank Inn would just as soon work with a coyote.

Frank is trainer, handler, friend and confidante of a rough-looking feline named Orangey Murray. This Murray character is well on his way to being the first starring cat in Hollywood history. Dogs and horses have made the grade, but never cats.

Orangey is playing the title role in "Rhubarb" and animal handler Inn says it's his hardest job.

"I've got a coyote who's easier to handle than cats," he remarked. "At least you can train a coyote to do tricks and he'll do them. You never can tell about cats."

Frank likes his cats, but as a trainer, he finds them difficult. "You can't teach them tricks. They won't respond to your voice or hand motions. The only way you can get them to do things is to run them through it many times. Then they'll do the same thing by habit.

"I really don't think they're dumb. It's just that they react according to how they're feeling at the time."

Toronto Dancers Get Spot In London Show

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto dancers Alan and Blanche Lund have been signed to appear in a London musical show opening May 9. The Lunds, now touring the United States, will leave Canada next month to start rehearsals in London.

They are to work in the same theatre, the Prince of Wales, in which they played for more than a year in the late Sid Field's revue, "Piccadilly Hayride."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Close-ups and Longshots: Strapless gowns are out; fellows, and plain shoulder straps are in.

Attached to gowns, of course. Mlle Anderson, the big movie fashion designer, slipped me the earth-shaking information. Here's his reason why the Hedys, Lanas and Greens are going to be putting their trust in a couple of ribbons:

"Strapless gowns have lost their mystery. Every man knows that they're wired and that there's no chance of them slipping down. But put a star in a gown with straps. The suspense is right back where it belongs. Every man knows that a strap can break."

SAD ABOUT CENSORS
Marta Toren, the Swedish beauty, is rarin' to droop like a wilted lily in a leading man's strong arms and prove a thing or two about her Garbo technique in a love clinch.

"But," she wailed, "the censors are completely frustrating. All the time they say: 'Cut.' You can't do this. You can't do that. Tony Martin and I played a roof-top love scene in 'Casbah.' For the next scene I took off my earrings. You know, they made the studio re-shoot the whole scene with my earrings back on. Too suggestive, they said."

Marta is Humphrey Bogart's leading lady in "Sirocco," but do you think she got a smidgen of what Ingrid Bergman got from Bogey in a picture called "Casablanca?" Marta sighed from-way down:

"Not one kiss. I've an aunt in Sweden who's crazy about Bogart. She's going to think something's wrong with me."

A friend of mine is going to stop taking the Saturday Evening Post. This week's cover just about bust up his happy home. It shows two fond parents, the father enraptured, forcing a pig-tailed daughter to play a piano solo for guests who couldn't be more bored if they were picking oakum.

It's a good picture and a smart theme, but it rasps on tender sensitivities. When it was laid out on the lunch table for my friend to see, tension mounted in the household. He, as a father, is mildly proud of the way his youngsters play. That pride is the one sustaining factor in a department of living devoted entirely to the task of keeping the children on the piano stool long enough each day to justify the cost of lessons.

THE CHILDREN like to play the piano. They just don't like practicing. There's a difference. It's the father's belief that they'll gain confidence and improve their performances by playing for visitors. He thinks a few solos while guests are present will reduce the youngsters' nervousness. That's logical enough.

The mother has slightly different ideas. She makes a point of considering her guests, and she's of a nature to suffer as keenly as the children when they're required to play before anyone but the immediate family. She doesn't like these performances. When the company departs, she explains to the father that he oughtn't to make the youngsters do their pieces.

UP TO THE TIME this week's Post arrived, the father brushed those protests aside. Then old Ben Franklin's publication punched the feminine argument home.

"I think," says the mother with that pained, patient voice used in fringe family discussions, "that I'll frame that cover and hang it up. Maybe it'll do some good around this house."

That brings only a weak grin from the father. In a growing family, he's had plenty of opportunity to doubt his mental ability, but this is the first time they've had to draw a picture to make him understand.

So maybe those "pleasant little musical interludes by the children" are out when company comes now. And maybe the Post is out, too. No telling what else its cover illustrations may do to the accepted routine of family living.

THE YOUNG woman who belongs to two or three organizations in town, does a bang-up job of raising her own family and still looks smart and attractive. It is beginning to wonder about organizations in general. Her high school daughter has started that trend of thought.

The girl belongs to this, belongs to that and belongs to the other. She's a good student and talented, but she seems to spend all her time going to the groups of which she's a member, and she hasn't any leisure.

It makes her mother think that maybe young people are over-organized and just haven't time to be natural young people.

THAT'S AN attitude you run into more frequently today. Adults have been so anxious to do things for the youngsters, that activities are tending to get a wee bit standardized. The spirit and sentiment behind the different organizations established to entertain and instruct small fry is excellent. You can't help wondering, though, if the trend isn't going a bit too far.

The last thing the organizations desire is to develop a generation that wants to put its hand into that of an older person and be led hither and thither. What they aim to do is help the youngsters to find outlets for their energies that are good and constructive. Over-organization could kill initiative in the process.

Mature men, looking back on boyhood, recall that they didn't need anyone to persuade them that they wanted to play football, go swimming, ride their bikes or take in a show.

THEY DIDN'T have as many playgrounds, with level turf, football posts and ball diamonds as they have now, but they often took over a vacant field, marked out their own playing surfaces and staged their own games.

As kids, they made up their own minds, and there probably weren't any more juvenile delinquents then than now.

Women's Council Delegation Sees Cabinet

May Select Defence Co-Ordinator Today

Selection of a civil defence co-ordinator for Greater Victoria may be made at a meeting late this afternoon, but announcement of the appointment is not expected immediately, according to Mayor Percy George today.

A special screening committee met this morning at City Hall to interview three remaining applicants of eight selected for interview.

Since the recent announcement by Defence Minister Claxton that squadrons in the service would be tripled, more than a dozen former members of the R.C.A.F. have called at the recruiting office on Government Street to rejoin.

Age limits and qualifications were eased when it was decided to expand the air force.

"Final choosing will be by ballot in my opinion and then a recommendation must be made to the full Civil Defence Regional Control Board for Greater Victoria," the mayor said.

"There is now no indication that others may be interviewed," said the mayor.

Owing to absence of Reeve Joseph Casey, the meeting, adjourned until this afternoon. If the reeve is still unable to attend it will be postponed until next week.

"There was some very excellent material," said Mayor George following the interviews.

Recruiting Picks Up For R.C.A.F.

After more than five years on "civvy street," a number of air force veterans in Victoria are contemplating returning to the R.C.A.F.

Since the recent announcement by Defence Minister Claxton that squadrons in the service would be tripled, more than a dozen former members of the R.C.A.F. have called at the recruiting office on Government Street to rejoin.

FRIENDLY RECEPTION

Eight hundred volunteers strode out into the sunshine today in making house-to-house calls on behalf of the Red Cross campaign to raise $67,000 here.

And reports reaching Red Cross campaign headquarters were that canvassers were receiving just as warm and friendly a reception from householders as they were from Old Sol.

A campaign worker at Red Cross House reported today at least 300 more canvassers were wanted to bring the strength of the collection unit up to full strength.

Among recent volunteers to the cause is Robert Dickson, a blind resident of Victoria who made many friends while operating the C.N.I.B. kiosk outside the Public Library.

May Billet Men On Leave

The Victoria Y.M.C.A.'s Red Triangle Club, which is swinging back into a wartime program of entertaining men of the armed services, may take over the job of providing homes for Canadian Special Forces non-Victoria soldiers at Fort Lewis who come here on embarkation leave.

This was indicated today by Vivian Shoemaker, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. He said the matter is being explored.

It is not expected that many non-Victorians will make Victoria their leave centre, but that they will hit for the larger centres.

An Ottawa dispatch today said that embarkation leave for the thousands of Canadian soldiers in the Washington camp slated for Korea service is expected to be announced shortly.

Fire Damage Slight

A spark from a burner in the Horton Shingle Mill No. 3 dry kiln caught shingles on fire today. The sprinkler system went into operation to hold the flames down until firemen arrived to extinguish the blaze.

An over-heated chimney through shingles started the roof of a greenhouse on fire on the property of Senator G. H. Barnard, 1462 Rockland. Damage was slight.

ASK DOGWOOD AS B.C. EMBLEM

The Provincial Council of Women wants to dogwood officially designated as the floral emblem of British Columbia.

A delegation from the council today asked the Provincial cabinet that action along this line be taken at once.

It was pointed out that all other provinces had official emblems, and although some merchants have been advertising dogwood as B.C.'s insignia, it had never been chosen officially.

Empty Seats In Legislature As Flu Takes Toll

'Flu is continuing to take its toll among members of the Legislature.

Two more cabinet ministers are among the latest victims. Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman and Trade and Industry Minister Leslie Eyres.

Premier Johnson was the first to go on the sick list. Finance Minister Anscomb followed, and although he is reported much improved, has not returned to his office.

Education Minister W. T. Straith was absent Thursday but returned to the Legislative Buildings today.

Several private members of the Legislature have been fighting the 'flu bug, too, and a few of the backbenchers' seats have been empty each day of the session.

'Two-Dollar Club' New Clip Racket

A new game, closely resembling the old pre-war "chain-letter" racket, is operating in the province. It is titled the "Two Dollar Club."

R. Mitchell, 1430 Grant Street, was the first to bring to the attention the game had spread to here.

Fee to join is $2. Members get a slip with a lot of names on it. They fill out two slips and sell them for $2 apiece, keeping $1 for each slip and sending $1 to "Number 9" written on the slip.

Women Put Case For Jail Reform

Five Suggestions Listed In Brief Of Provincial Council Delegation

Penal reform particularly for women offenders was one of the main issues raised by a strong delegation from the Provincial Council of Women at a meeting today with the provincial cabinet.

The council had its sights set on Oakalla Prison where, it was stated, five major changes should be made:

1. A new prison for women on separate property removed from proximity with the prison for men;
2. Segregation of first offenders from repeaters;
3. Segregation of drug addicts from other prisoners;
4. Appointment of a trained teacher in handicrafts;
5. Extension of library facilities with greater encouragement for reading.

Esquimalt Reports Building Record

Value of building permits issued in Esquimalt during the last two months has hit an all-time record high, principally because of two major construction jobs.

Total value of permits up to the end of February was $482,020, which includes $370,000 permit for addition to Esquimalt High School, and $60,000 permit for Clubb's warehouse.

Total value of building permits issued during first two months of 1950 was $20,840.

Record Building Total For City

A last-minute tally in the city building office today revealed a record-breaking construction for February with 167 permits taken out for a value of $912,927.

It is triple the usual February construction in the city. Permits for major work totaling $430,787 helped boost the figure to the near million mark.

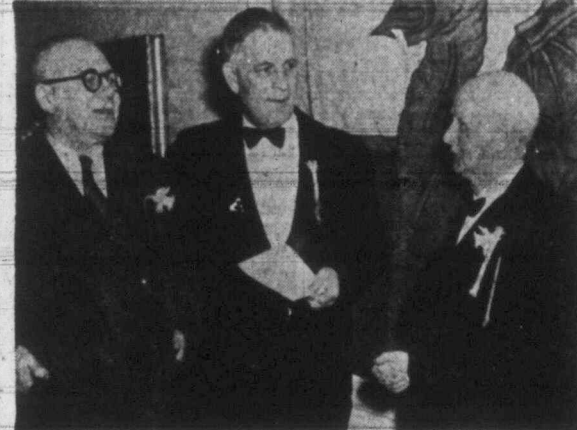

In February of 1950, 115 permits were issued for construction valued at $318,977.

Seek Ship Service

Gulf Islands residents want to be closer to Victoria.

A delegation of residents from the various island, members of the Gulf Islands Development Association, asked Works Minister E. C. Carson if something could be done about it.

They pointed out that there was steamship communication with the mainland, but there was no direct service to Vancouver Island.

Welshmen Honor Patron Saint

Victoria's Welsh-born citizens gathered Thursday night for observance of St. David's Day. Officers of city's Welsh Society taking part were Walter Jeune, left, past president; Reeve A. I. Thomas, president, and John Williams, vice-president. Jeune proposed toast to Wales, replied to by H. Harrison. Traditional songs were a feature.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Woman Wonders Why Daughter Writes So Seldom, Seems To Care Little Since Marriage

Dear Mary Haworth: My daughter lives several hundred miles away since she married, and sometimes she writes me, but more often she doesn't. I may get a couple of letters a week apart, and then not a word for months. If I get frantic and finally call her long distance, she says she was "just too lazy" to write, or some such excuse.

I am not only hurt by this discourtesy, I am sometimes ashamed of her. I know other mothers who have daughters, and most have done far less for their girls than I did for Edna, yet they get better treatment than Edna gives me. I was her sole support for years. I spent my leisure trying to be her pal, and I set aside money for her to continue her education after high school, but she preferred to marry instead. After she married, I married again, too—a very fine man, I'll call him Rob, whom she approves.

Mary Haworth

Rob says I must have done a poor job with Edna, to have her so unfeeling. He was particularly disgusted with her when I had an operation. She didn't send a line, although he had telephoned her about my condition. Later, when I entered the hospital a second time he merely sent her a newspaper clipping about it. This got a rise out of her! She called, wrote and got really disturbed. When she is here, she is very affectionate, says how much she loves me, how proud of me she always has been, etc.—so I can't understand her seeming indifference when she is away.

She has a darling baby and I feel much denied in not getting a full report on the baby's cute ways. Mothers like to relive through their children all the experiences they perhaps have missed. I would like to do so many things for Edna, but I feel it might look like trying to buy her interest. My husband does so much for her, and her husband, that I feel he, too, deserves better treatment than she gives him. During a vacation visit to them last year, Rob spent most of his time and some money putting in improvements while we were there. She seemed most appreciative then, but didn't drop us a line for months after we came home. How do you explain such behaviour? How cope with it?—R. L.

GIRL HAS BEEN TAUGHT TO TAKE

Dear R. L.: It seems to me that your narrative discloses the underlying cause of Edna's inattentive attitude towards you. She was emotionally conditioned in formative years to remain on the receiving end of solicitous attentions in relation to you.

With a heart full of love and the best intentions in the world, you tried to give her everything—but everything!—within your power to bestow, when she was

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Exercises Reduce Bulges; Won't Change Bony Frame

(The Friday Question Box)

Q.—"I have been taking waist exercises for a month, doing them from 50 to 100 times daily but have not gotten any results. When should I begin to see results? My bust measures 33 inches, my waist 25 inches and my hips 33 inches."

A.—A woman who does the exercises faithfully every day should see quite a difference, and in the meantime, have some hot oil shampoos. There are also good products planned especially for brittle ends. This is a cream you rub on the ends of your hair to make them softer.

Q.—"My baby is two years old but I did not nurse him. However, at times my bust feels slightly sore and a liquid exudes. Is this natural?"

A.—No. See your doctor immediately, please.

Q.—"My legs are so very small. I weigh 115 pounds and am 5 feet, 6 inches tall. What can I do to make my legs larger?"

A.—You should gain at least 10 pounds, both for beauty and for health. This will help fill out the contour of your legs.

Also do this exercise: Stand tall with your right side toward the wall. Place your right hand on the wall for balance. Rock forward on your feet and rise high on your toes, lifting your heels as high off the floor as possible. Lower heels and rock back on them. Again rock forward and rise on toes. Continue. Do this about 100 times a day. It will take a little time to see results.

Q.—"Beauty experts always say to pluck the hairs only from the underneath side of the brow but I have lots of stray hairs on top of the brow. What do I do about these?"

After exercising faithfully for two weeks you should be able to see a difference.

be able to measure the difference in two weeks time. You did not give me your height or weight but a 33-inch bustline and hips do not indicate overweight. I am inclined to think this is a question of build rather than fatty deposits. We cannot change the bony structure. Be sure you are doing the exercises correctly, giving time for the pull and keeping your knees stiff when indicated.

Q.—"Please send me information about what to do for brittle hair that looks burned at the ends."

A.—Sounds as though you had a bad permanent. Did you? If so this would account for the brittle ends. You will just have to wait for it to grow out, and

Would Make Divorce Easier

LONDON (Reuters).—Four British women members of Parliament announced today they will try to make divorce easier for people whose only reason for cutting the marriage bond is that they find it impossible to live together.

Under present British law the only grounds for divorce are adultery, cruelty, desertion, insanity or "vicious practices."

A bill to be presented to the House of Commons next week by Mrs. Irene White, 41, Labor, seeks to annul marriages where the couples have lived apart for seven years even though there is no recognized ground for divorce.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

He never is lonely who attends where ever he is to making friends. —Teeter the Sandpiper.

Teeter the Spotted Sandpiper was a long, long, long way from the smiling pool and the laughing brook and the big river of his summer home. He was in his winter home far down in the Sunny South where it is summer the year through. He was on the island where once Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday lived, a lovely island, a green gem in a blue, blue sea beneath a blue, blue sky. Teeter had spent several winters there. So he was quite as much at home there as back north where he had been born on the shore of the big river, and where his own children had left their shells when they had started out in the great world.

TEETER AT HOME

Down here everything, or almost everything, was different. The trees were different, bushes were different, vines were different, flowers were different, fruits were different, even most of the insect folk and the folks in fur and feathers were different. It was like being in another world altogether. Yet Teeter was perfectly at home there.

You see, Teeter, small as he is, is a born traveler, and born travelers are at home wherever they may be. He was as much at home on that island in the Land-of-always-summer as those who live there all the time. It was hard to believe that where his nest had been, where he had watched his babies run and swim and dive when only a day old, everything was now covered with ice and snow, and Rough Brother North Wind and merciless Jack Frost had no pity for anyone.

Perhaps Teeter was thinking of this as he ran along just above the water line on a lovely little beach, though it is doubtful. He never had stayed north long enough to really know anything about snow and ice. Now he made a short little run and stopped, as is his way. Just as he stopped some sand fell right in front of him almost at his feet. I suspect that Teeter would have grinned if he could have, but of course he couldn't. He chuckled down inside, a sort of soundless chuckle. He stood right where he was, not taking another step, but bobbing and bowing as is his way.

"Hello, Pincher!" said he. It was Pincher the Land Crab.

SOMEONE IN HOLE

Another pinch of sand fell at his feet. It came from a hole in the ground. Someone was down in that hole. Teeter could dimly see someone moving in there. He said nothing, just stood there teetering and waiting.

Another pinch of sand was thrown out and almost at once the one who had thrown it appeared in his doorway, for that hole was his home. A pair of black pop-eyes stared hard at Teeter. Then out sidled their owner. He wore neither fur nor feathers, nor even skin that could be seen. He wore a shell that covered his whole body and even his legs. He made Teeter think of a big-bodied spider wearing a shell coat. Teeter recognized an old acquaintance.

"Hello, Pincher!" said he. It was Pincher the Land Crab. He sidled a little farther from his home, still staring at Teeter.

"So you have come back," said he. He didn't say he was glad to see Teeter. He didn't sound or seem at all interested one way or the other. His pop-eyes continued to stare without once blinking.

"Of course I've come back. I always come back. Why shouldn't I come back? Don't stare at me so. I don't like to be stared at," said Teeter.

"I always stare. Why shouldn't I stare? What are eyes for if not to stare with?" replied Pincher. He didn't blink. He couldn't have blinked if he had wanted to.

"It isn't polite," said Teeter

Vancouver Airport Sale Proposed

VANCOUVER (CP)—City Council will be asked Tuesday to formally approve sale of Vancouver International Airport to the federal government for $1,500,000.

The $1,500,000, plus another $500,000, will be applied to the Marpole Bridge fund. The bridge is to cost $6,000,000 with senior governments bearing a share.

Five Injured In Bombing

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—A bomb was hurled into an A.F.L. longshoremen's headquarters today, injuring at least five persons.

New U.S. Sub Launched

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP)—The navy's newest threat to enemy submarines, the K-1, slid into the Thames River today.

Allies Drive Deeper Into Red Defence Line

TOKYO (CP)—United States Marines swept through abandoned Hoengsong today and stabbed deeper into the heart of Communist defences on the central Korean front.

Communist resistance stiffened all along the Allied line. On the east-central front, Korean Reds wearing South Korean uniforms knifed inside American positions and fought the infantrymen hand-to-hand.

Red jets again challenged U.S. jets near the Manchurian border.

Tankled Marines of the 1st Division drove into Hoengsong unopposed at 2.40 p.m. after smashing Chinese Reds in a two-day battle on dominating ridges nearby. Infantrymen followed the Marines.

Field dispatches said they found the rubble highway hub littered with the frozen bodies of earlier Allied casualties and scores of wrecked army trucks and jeeps. Hoengsong was virtually deserted.

Fifty air miles east of Seoul, Hoengsong is in the middle of the mountainous, central front. It fell to the Chinese Feb. 12 during the Red counter-offensive that failed to crack the Allied line.

U.S. Plane Crash Kills 15 Persons

SIOUX CITY, Ia. (BUP)—A Mid-Continent DC-3 airliner carrying 25 persons crashed and burned while attempting a landing during a snowstorm at municipal airport here today. The airlines office here said 15 were killed.

"There were 25 persons aboard the plane and there were 10 survivors," the office said.

The plane was en route from Kansas City to Minneapolis. An Aberdeen, S.D., woman, Mrs. J. D. Alway, who survived a Mid-Continent Airlines crash Tuesday at Tulsa, Okla., was among those killed today.

The statement said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of four.

One of the crew members, Stewardess Marilyn Woodbury, Kansas City, Mo., was among the survivors. She suffered a broken arm and head injuries.

A temporary morgue was set up at the Sioux City naval armory.

Atomic Shells Predicted Soon

WASHINGTON (UP)—Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr. said today atomic artillery shells are "not just a dream" and will be an "effective" addition to U.S. ground weapons.

"This is something that will come to be and it will come to be, I think, in a fashion that can be used effectively," Pace said. "Exactly when it will come to be," he added, "I prefer not to state."

Pace also said the army: 1. Hopes to raise two more combat divisions by reducing luxuries and shifting men from desks to the field.

2. Is confident its new light, heavy and medium tanks will be equal or superior to anything the Russians can put in the field, weight for weight.

3. Has the world's best bazooka—the new 3.5-inch model—and rifle—the M-1.

Loan Boost Sought

OTTAWA (CP)—Increase in the amount of individual building loans under the National Housing Act will be sought in the Commons by Joseph Noseworthy (C.C.F.-York South).

SIX DEAD, 10 WOUNDED IN FIRST CASUALTY LIST

Plans Canada Army

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt. Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, is going to Washington Sunday for talks with American military chiefs.

He is expected to discuss arrangements to field Canadian formations both in Europe and Korea.

Gen. Simonds is motoring from Kingston, Ont., to West Point, N.Y., to see tomorrow night's annual hockey contest between the U.S. Military Academy and Canada's Royal Military College.

He will go to Washington from West Point and is expected back here next Tuesday or Wednesday. It is his first visit to the U.S. capital since he took over the job of running the army a month ago.

TO TELL TROOPS WAR'S MEANING

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department is expected to appoint a civil affairs director soon to tell Canadian servicemen what they're fighting for.

Defence Minister Claxton is understood to be considering a number of men for the position.

The government is reported ready to spend some hundreds of thousands of dollars a year on a drive to acquaint servicemen with the virtues of democracy and the subtle hypocrisies of Communist propaganda.

Well, What's Strange About Me?

Four-year-old Joop Kelder couldn't see anything strange in his attire. In fact he figured he was wearing the right boots for sloppy weather. Joop was one of a family of 14 Dutch settlers who stopped briefly in Winnipeg en route to farm at Abbotsford, B.C. In Dutch, the traditional wooden shoes are called "klompen."—(CP Photo)

Plumbers Seek $1 Hourly Hike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plumbers in Vancouver and district today are seeking a $1 an hour pay boost.

They want the hourly rate increased from $1.75 to $2.75.

The men, members of the Plumbers' and Pipefitters' Union, Local 170 (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) have requested a $1.85 hourly rate based on a cost-of-living contract clause.

$65 Million For Canada Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to recommend a payment from the federal treasury of $65,000,000 towards a final settlement of the five-year wheat pool, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today.

He said this will provide a per bushel payment equal to approximately 23 cents a bushel for the last two years of the four-year contract.

The addition of the $65,000,000 will swell the amount remaining in the five-year wheat pool to $120,000,000.

This, on the basis of 1,428,000 bushels of wheat delivered by farmers over the five-year period, will provide a payment of about 8.3 cents a bushel.

CREDIT LEFT

Mr. St. Laurent said the house would have noted that Britain announced recently it would make no further withdrawals from the balance remaining from the $120,000,000 Canadian credit extended several years ago.

Under the wheat contract, Canada delivered 600,000 bushels of wheat to Britain. The British paid $1.55 a bushel during the first two years and $2 a bushel in the last two years.

Under one of the contract clauses—known as the "have regard to" clause—Britain undertook in deciding the price to be paid in the last two years to take into account the low price at which she got wheat in the first two years.

Sports Briefs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver may send a team to compete in the "little league" world series this year.

Little league baseball is for boys 12 and under, and the youngsters play on a diamond scaled two-thirds regulation size.

REVELSTOKE (BUP)—The two-day Canadian Olympic ski jumping team selection trials opened under perfect skiing conditions today.

Over 15 jumpers from all parts of Canada were entered in today's competition for a possible berth on the 1952 Olympic team. Officials have announced a tentative team of only four jumpers will be carried.

Britain Parades 1951 Cars In Canadian Show

MONTREAL (BUP)—Britain paraded its 1951 line of autos—its most valuable blue-chip export commodity—before Canadians today.

Fifty models designed by United Kingdom manufacturers to suit every taste and pocket book were previewed here as Britain made a strong bid to consolidate its lucrative Canadian market and build up its backlog of Canadian dollars.

They were cars which few car-hungry Britons will ever see. In an effort to bite into the American monopoly of American cars in Canada Britain has allocated 80 per cent of its production for the foreign market. And a Briton, if he gets a car, must wait up to four years for delivery.

The Canadian buyer liked the low-cost mileage, the horsepower under the hood and the clean, neat lines of the British models.

The dealer predicted that the recent dumping duties imposed on the cars in line with Canadian trade policy would have little effect on sales this year.

U.S. IMPORTS DOWN

"Canadians want cars. The American steel restrictions are going to cut down imports and here we have a car pound for pound, and dollar for dollar which can give any American car a run for its money," he said.

The show featured all types of passenger cars from the dignified Rolls-Royce and low, rakish sports models to the conservative family car.

Senate To Vote On Age 18 Draft

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate agreed today to vote Monday on whether to lower the draft age to 18 or 18½.

The vote will be on an amendment by Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.).

The lower draft age now is 19. The defence department wants it dropped to 18. But Morse says that is six months too low.

Morse's vote is considered a major test.

War Crisis At A Glance

KOREA—U.S. Marines drove through abandoned Hoengsong and pushed into the heart of Red defences on the central front. Russian-type MIG-15 jet fighters skirmished with Allied planes over the northwest area. One MIG was downed and four were damaged. Two U.S. Mustangs were shot down by ground fire. Canadian, British, New Zealand and Australian troops were engaged in a bitter battle against stiffening Chinese resistance.

LONDON—A Commonwealth defence conference may take place here in May.

OTTAWA—Embarkation leave for a limited number of Canadian soldiers slated for Korea is expected to be announced shortly. Some may be flown to their home cities.

Vancouver Vets Join Victoria's

It was disclosed today that Imperial veterans in both Victoria and Vancouver will ask Ottawa and London to make major adjustments in their pensions and taxes.

A meeting in Vancouver set up a committee which will ask both governments for increases.

In pensions and an agreement between Canada and Britain to avoid dual payment of income tax by Imperial veterans.

A similar committee was formed recently here.

Capt. H. M. Talbot-Lehman, key figure in both groups, said that pound devaluation and the rising cost of living had meant a 57 per cent reduction in pensions since 1919. This was despite increases up to 30 per cent in pensions.

He cited cases of veterans, pensioners or widows whose pension income had been reduced to $6.50 a month.

It would cost Britain $1,177,000 to bring pensions back to par, he said, "a mere drop in the bucket compared to the fantastic expenditures for rearmament."

This here butter shortage should clear things up. We'll know what side our bread is margarine.

A fan's a feller who'll stand three hours on a hard sidewalk so he can sit three hours on a hard seat. Or is that a fanatic?

France seems to hev as much trouble formin' a gov-mint as Britain has gettin' rid o' one.
